It's object, in short, to raise the standard of health and comfort of all true workers of whatever grade- they were cleaner, handsomer than the average of either race. The means by which these objects are to be achieved being a healthy, natural, and economic combination of town and country life, and this on land owned by the muniplicity.....so all things considered, I feel sure you will get used to our ways without too much effort.

For hence forth you are perfect! Up to this day your own offspring, your various mechanisms, were of greater perfection than ourselves
The rest of the large space..is a public park, containing 145 Acres, which include ample recreation grounds within very easy access of all the people. And yet the guardians have more and more often (well may you blush) seen smiles and heard the sighs among you....The road lies clear ahead.

In all the public squares or parks they have erected handsome houses, beautifully furnished, with baths and bedrooms. If a man has decided to die, he goes there. A peace unshaken by pain.

Of course,originally it was all fields around here.// The meadows were green, and so was the rising wheat which had been sown...and before that an ocean.

Noticing the varied architecture and design, some having common gardens and co-operative kitchens-we learn that the general observance of street or harmonious departing from it are the chief points as to house building over which the municiple authorities exercise control...the fullest measure of individual taste is encouraged.

..Each generation should build to suit its own needs; and it is no more in the nature of things that men should continue to live in old areas because their ancestors lived in them, than it is that they should cherish the old beliefs which a wider faith and a more enlarged understanding have outgrown. Our past is noble and tragic.

Can better results be obtained by starting on a bold plan on comparatively virgin soil than by attempting to adapt our old cities to our newer and higher needs? Do you remember the suburbs and the doleful procession of landscapes. (incredulous almost)

What Is may hinder What Might Be for a while, but cannot stay the tide of progress...//In the end you are tired of that world of antiquity//. These crowded cities have done their work;//you have had enough of living in greek and roman antiquity//; they were the best which a society largely based on selfishness and rapacity could construct, but they are in the nature of things entirely unadapted for a society in which the social side of our nature is demanding a larger share of recognition.

Great public dormitories where one sleeps forever side by side with beings hated or unknown. Reciprocal ferocity of painters and of sculptors killing each other with line and colour in the same gallery...As we listened to the exhausted prayer of the old canal and heard the grating bones of palaces moribund in their greenery whiskers. (angryish manifesto di futurismo)

You that love England, who have an ear for her music,

The slow movement of clouds in benediction,
Clear arias of light thrilling over uplands,
Over chords of summer sustained peacefully;
Ceaseless the leaves' counterpoint in a west wind lively,
Blossom and River rippling loveliest allegro,
And the storms of wood strings brass at years finale:
Listen. Can you not here the entrance of a new theme?
